

MID-WEEK PICTORIAL

AN ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY PUBLISHED BY THE NEW YORK TIMES COMPANY

VOL. XII, NO. 25,

FEBRUARY 17, 1921.

PRICE TEN CENTS

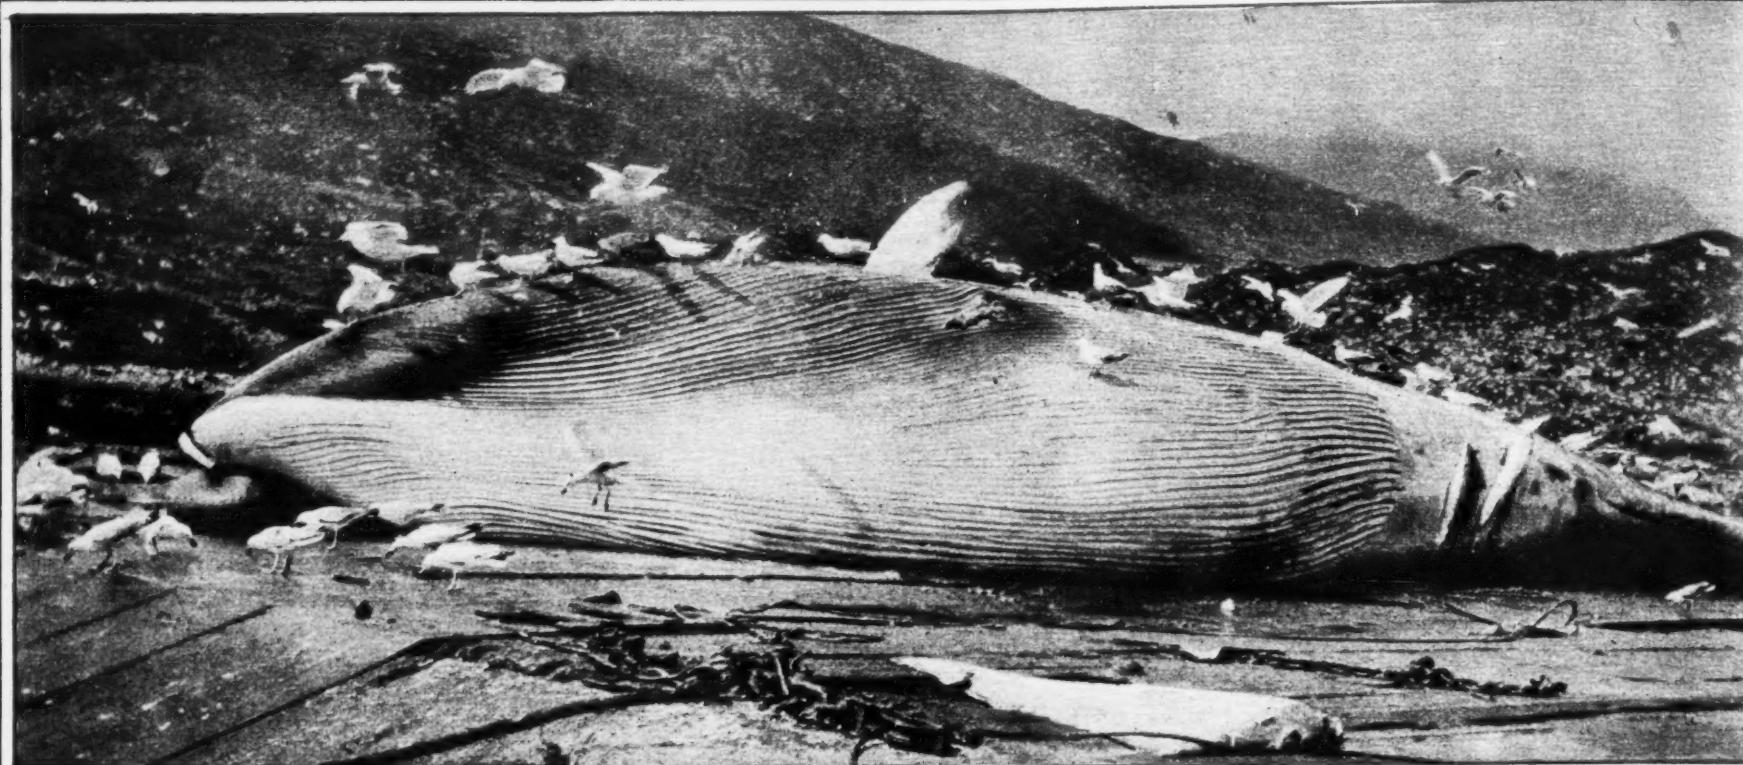

[CANADA 15 CENTS]

A special pose of
MISS ANITA
STEWART

(Photographed by C.
Heighron Monroe,
Los Angeles.)

Curious and Tragic Phases of Animal and Reptile Life

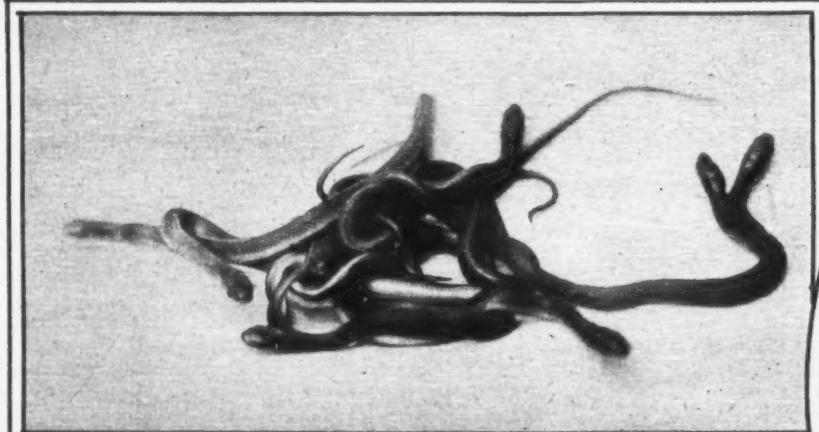

WHALE IN THE
HEBRIDES

Finner whale hauled out of the water and ready to be cut up for the boilers. While the old whaling industry has become almost extinct owing to the scarcity of the "right" whale with its valuable whalebone, a new traffic has sprung up off the Hebrides for the capture of other kinds of whales for their blubber, from which oil is secured.

BIG GRIZZLY BEAR KILL
These four grizzlies were killed in 30 seconds in British Columbia by Francis Dickie and Jack Rognon. This is believed to be a record. That the bears did not fall very far apart can be gathered from their position in the deep snow just below slide on which they were shot.

(Amateur photo by Francis Dickie.)

TWO-HEADED SNAKE

Nest of grass snakes found at Meriden, Conn., on the grounds of Schuyler Hall. One of them had two perfectly normal and developed heads.
(Amateur photo from E. W. Bracht.)

CARIBOU SWIMMING
A RIVER TO ESCAPE
Caribou deer in British Columbia which were snapped by one of the hunters pursuing them while the hunted animals were breasting the waves of a river in their efforts to escape. They were strong swimmers and reached the further bank in safety.
(Amateur photo by Francis Dickie.)

NOTICE TO AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHERS:—The MID-WEEK PICTORIAL will pay $10 for the best photographic print of any big event in the United States or Canada of the week's news taken by an amateur photographer. The editors will make the choice. Any other submitted prints used will be paid for at $2 each. Prints not used will be returned only if postage is sent. Send the prints unmounted, any size. Address The MID-WEEK PICTORIAL, Room 1708, Times Building, Times Square, New York City.

MID-WEEK PICTORIAL

VOL. XII., NO. 25.

NEW YORK, FEBRUARY 17, 1921.

PRICE 10 CENTS.

MRS. WARREN G. HARDING

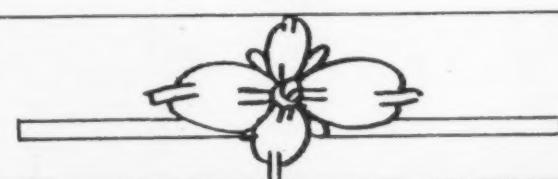

Wife of the President-elect, photographed at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel,
New York City, on the occasion of her recent shopping trip to the metropolis.
(© Wide World Photos.)

Curious and Interesting Phases of Life Gathered

WHIPPING POST IN DELAWARE

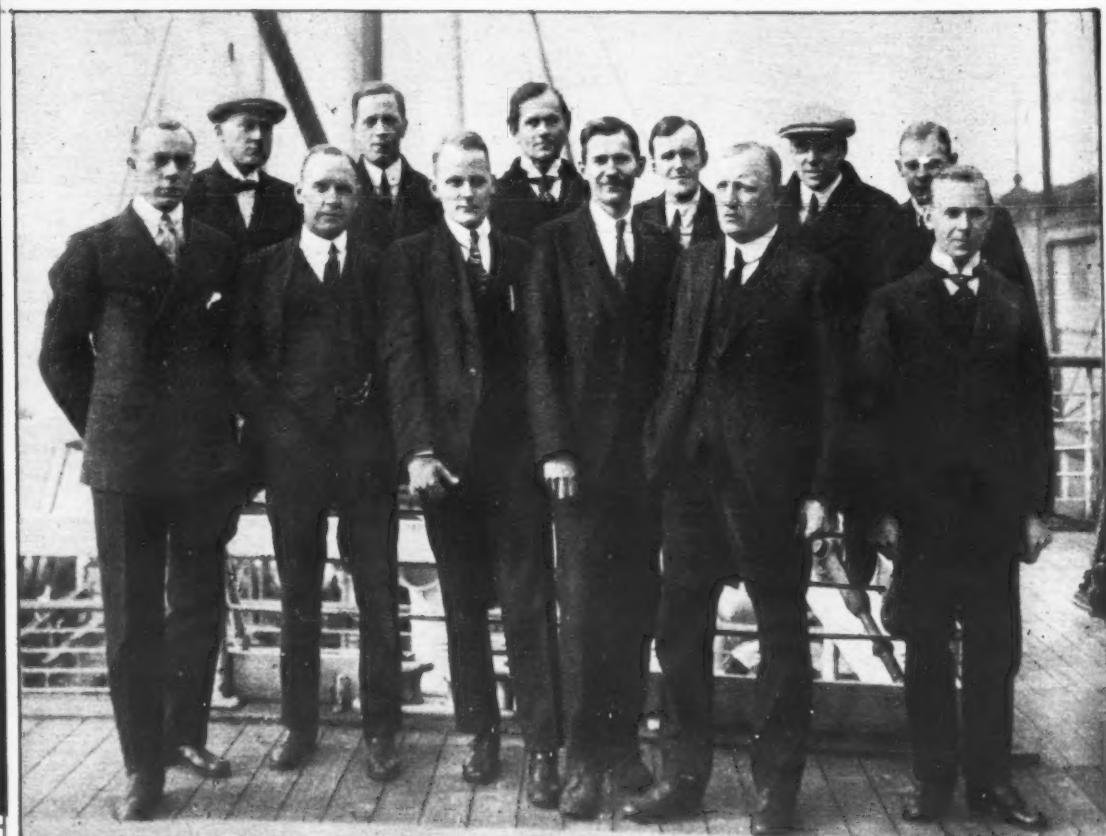

The Legislature of Delaware has recently passed a bill that imposes a penalty of forty lashes on the bare back and twenty years in jail upon any one convicted of a holdup. The drastic punishment is designed to keep bandits and highway robbers at a distance. Delaware is the only State with such a statute.
(© Ewing Galloway.)

MEDAL STRUCK FOR THE HARDING-COOLEDGE INAUGURATION
Front and reverse sides of Inauguration Medal. Gold medals will be given to the new President and Vice President, silver to members of Inaugural Committee and bronze for general distribution. Designed by E. H. Hannan.
(© International.)

FINGER WATCH THE LATEST PARISIAN FAD
To be up to the minute in Paris it is now necessary to have a tiny watch on the little finger. It is so small that the glove can be put on very easily. Some of them are studded with diamonds so as to serve as a combination watch and ring.
(© Kadel & Herbert.)

MILLIONAIRES SERVING AS STRIKEBREAKERS
When the Swedish-American liner Drottingholm arrived recently in New York it was discovered that the fireroom crew included twelve millionaires. Left to right here shown, front row: Messrs. Anderson, Ahren, Blom, Alund, Bjorkstrom, Yohanssen. Back row: Messrs. Stehn, Zander, Cruitz, Forssfedt, Forman and Florin. They volunteered to take the place of strikers.
(© Keystone View Co.)

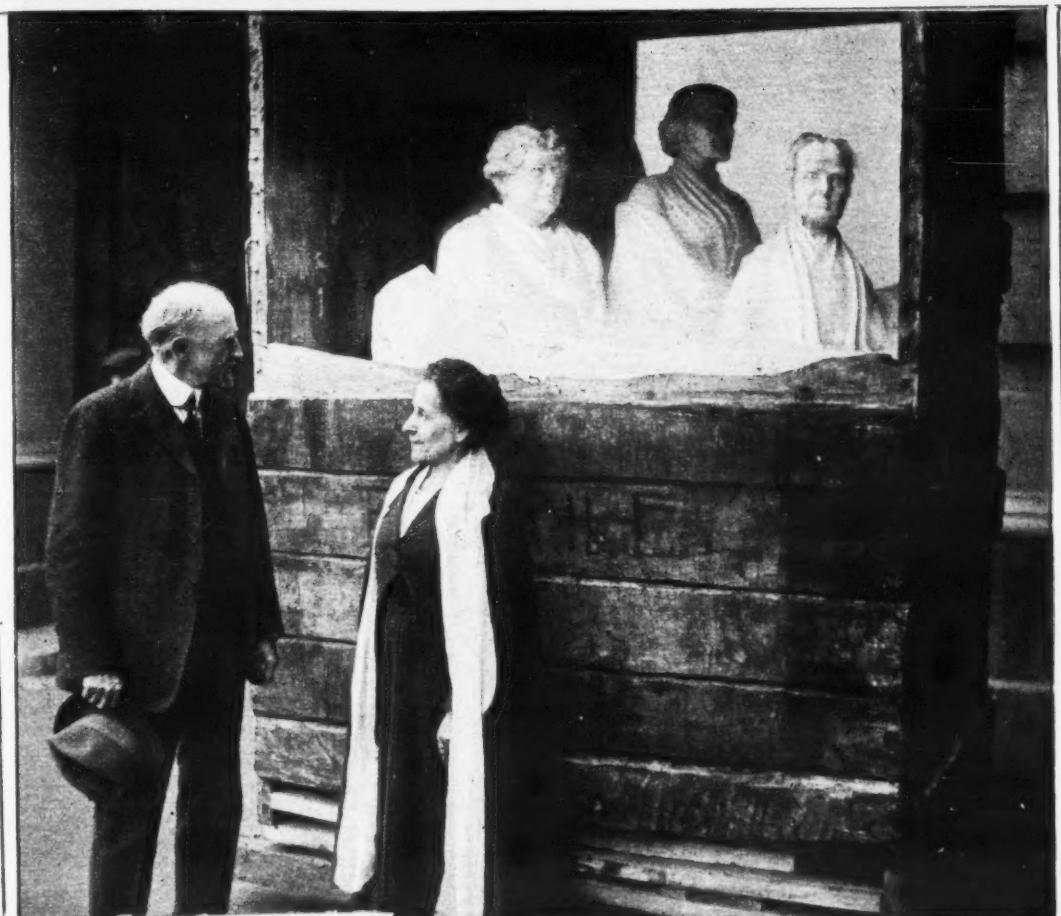

by the Camera From All Parts of the World

BULGARIAN GIRLS DANCING FOR A HUSBAND
Every year the village girls of Bulgaria gather in the principal square to dance while the marriageable men look on to choose as bride the one each fancies most. The coins worn by the girls show what the amount of their dowry will be.
(© International.)

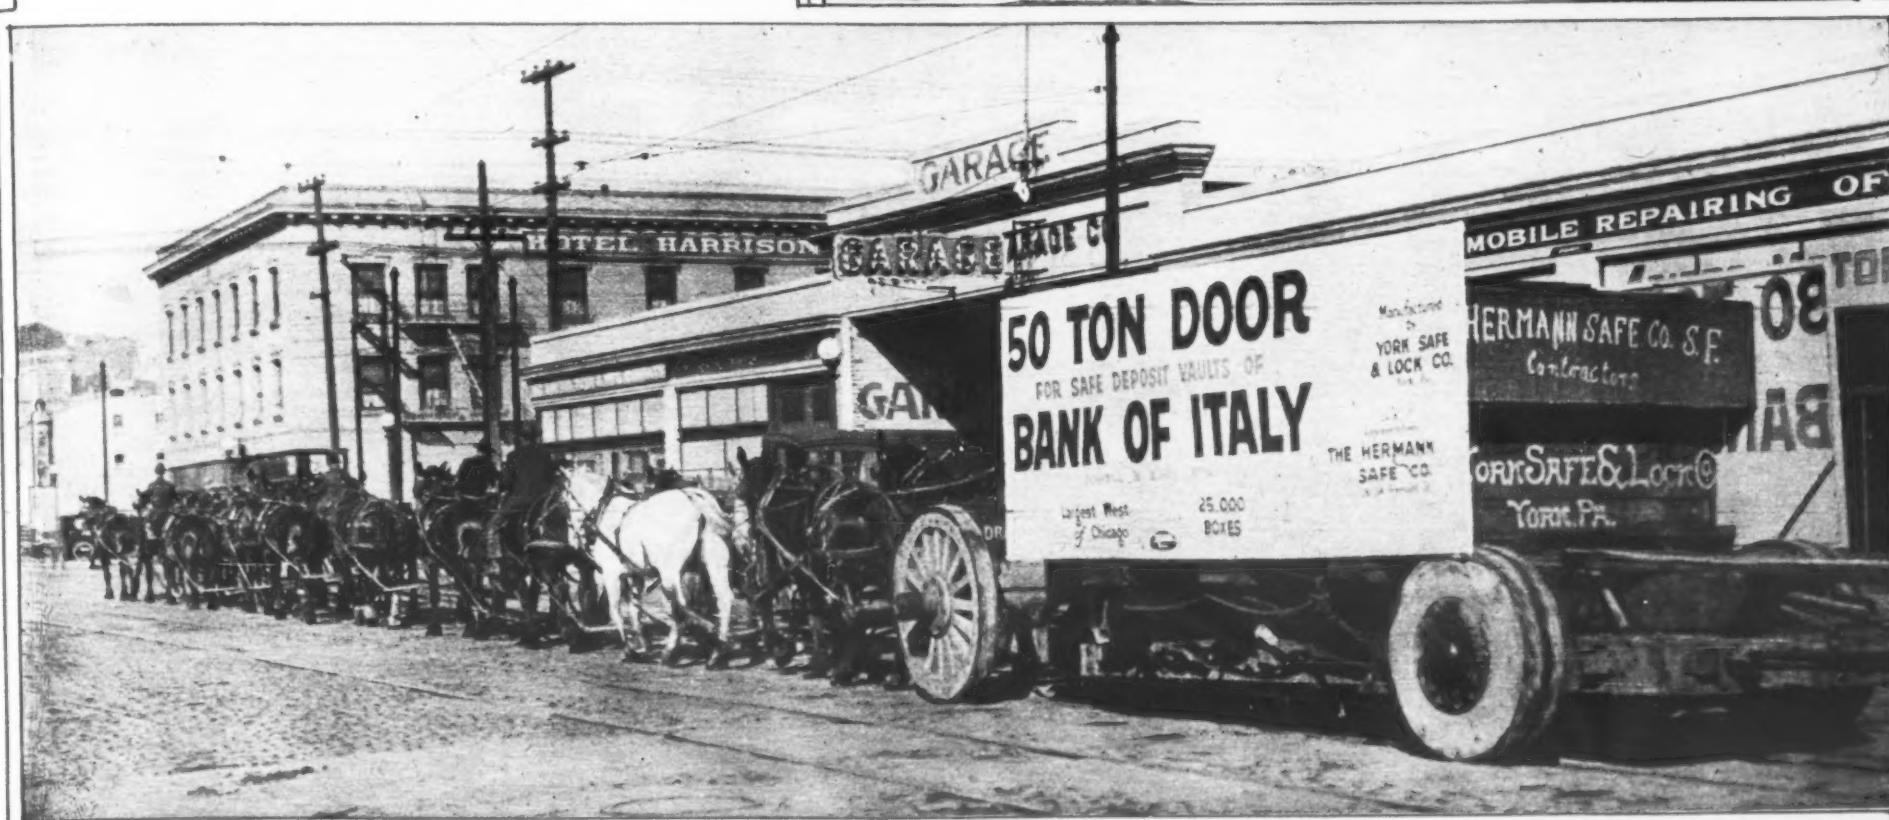

SUFFRAGE MEMORIAL REACHES WASHINGTON

The memorial statue of Susan B. Anthony, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Lucretia Mott, the work of the American sculptress, Mrs. Adelaide Johnson, reached the Capitol Feb. 5. It will be presented to the nation on Feb. 15 by thirty-six women's organizations, representing from 5,000,000 to 10,000,000 women. Speaker Gillett, who will make the speech of acceptance for Congress, is here seen viewing the statue with Mrs. Johnson outside the Capitol.
(© Harris & Ewing.)

FIFTY-TON DOOR FOR SAN FRANCISCO BANK

(Below) the biggest door for a banking institution west of Chicago is here seen in transit through the city streets. It is to be used by the Bank of Italy in San Francisco for the safe deposit vaults of their new building. The ponderous door required the services of eighteen horses to draw it to its destination.
(© Keystone View Co.)

Conditions in Ireland Steadily Growing Graver, While

SOME hope has been expressed that a peaceful solution of the Irish problem might be found in the recent announcement that the British Government favored giving Ireland complete control of its own fiscal problems. How efficacious this may prove remains, however, to be determined. In the meantime outrage and reprisal continue throughout the country. A raid remarkable for its daring was carried out Feb. 8 by 100 men on the freight yard of the Great Northern Railway terminus in Amiens Street, Dublin. The party were armed with guns and revolvers, and disguised by handkerchiefs tied over the lower portion of the face. There was only a small staff of six at work in the yard, and by an extensive posting of sentries and the dismantling of telephones the raiders were insured against surprise and communication with the outside world. An attempt on the lives of fifteen soldiers was made by Sinn Feiners in West Donegal Feb. 8. Learning that the soldiers were traveling by the afternoon train from Burtonport to Londonderry, the rebels tumbled boulders on the permanent way where it curves at a lonely spot near Kincaslough, the scene of former outrages, including the recent troop train ambush. The train crashed into the obstruction and the engine and the first coach were derailed. Fortunately no soldiers or other passengers were injured, though all were stranded for the night.

Soldiers standing about a shop in Cork, from which the goods had been removed, preparatory to the buildings being blown up in reprisal for an attack upon the police. Cordon were drawn around the district to prevent interference with the work of the troops.
(© Central News.)

Contents of shop in Washington Street, Cork, that was recently wrecked, because shots had come from there in an attack on two detectives. While the destruction was going on, an aeroplane hovered overhead and Lewis guns were placed at various points.

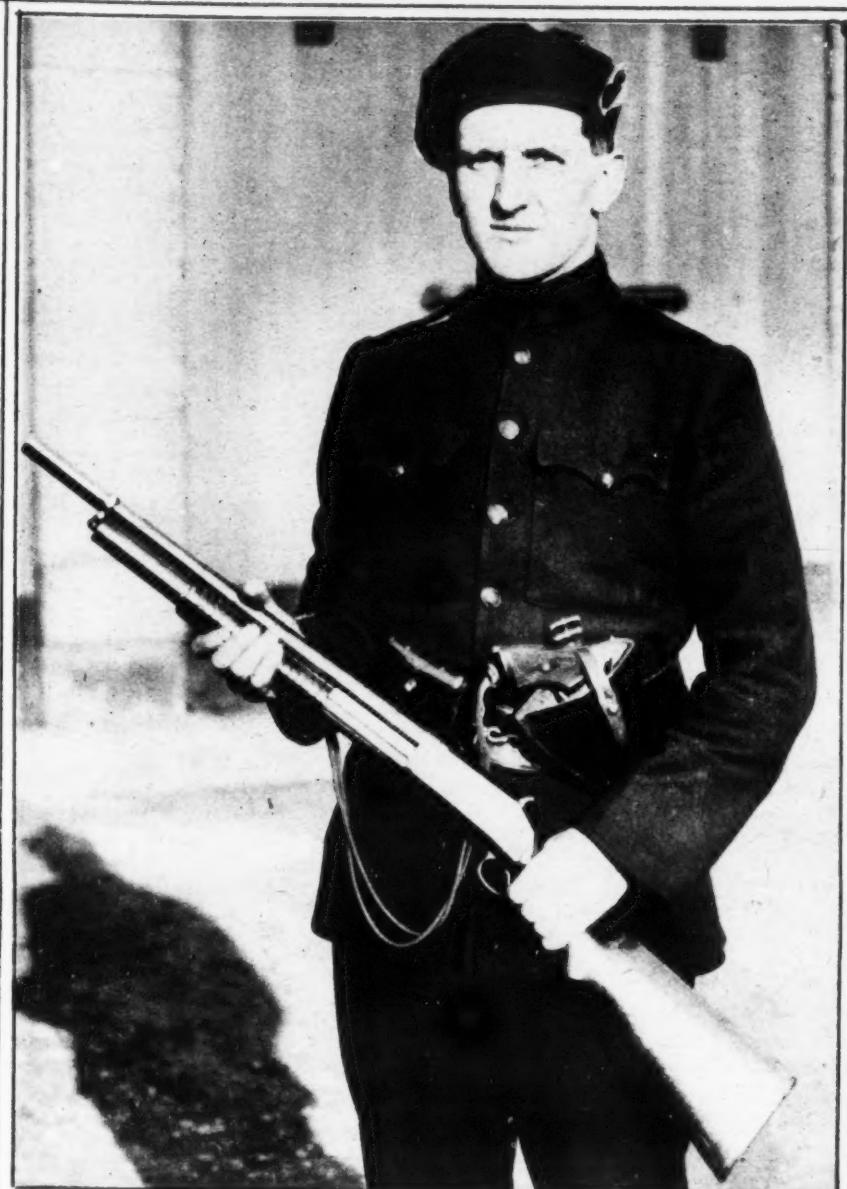

Blood-hounds are being used in Ireland to hunt down wanted Sinn Feiners. They are here shown taking the scent from a man's hat. They have been employed extensively in the Cork district.
(© International.)

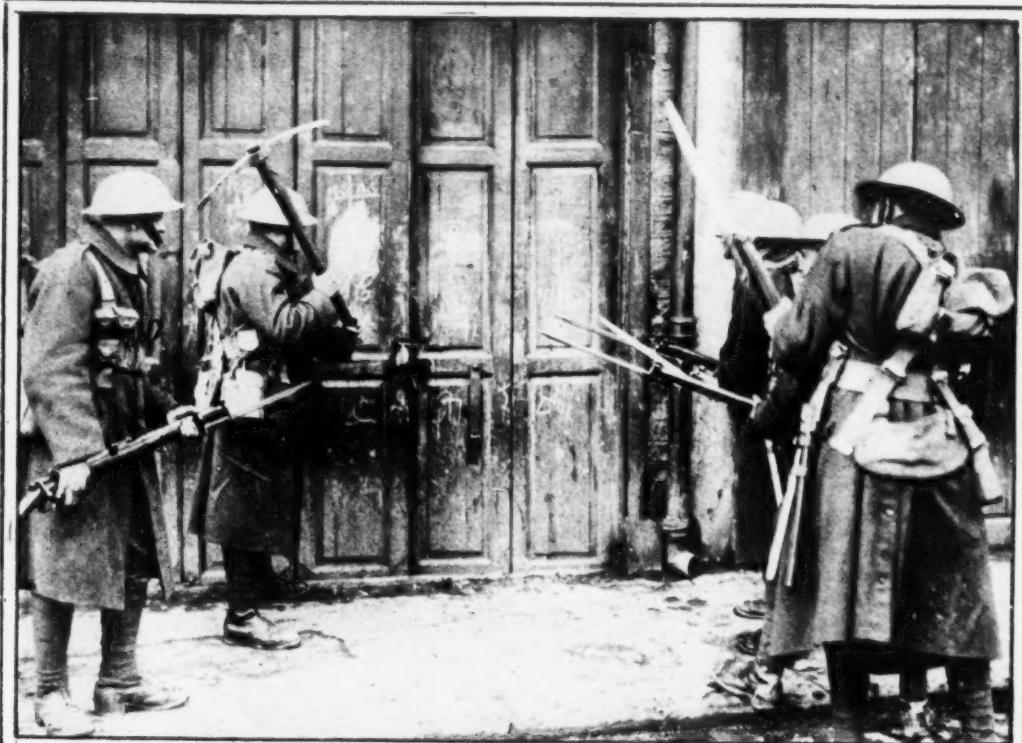

Explosion that destroyed shops in Cork, in reprisal for attacks that had been made from them on the police.
(© Central News.)

the Country Drifts Toward the Brink of Civil War

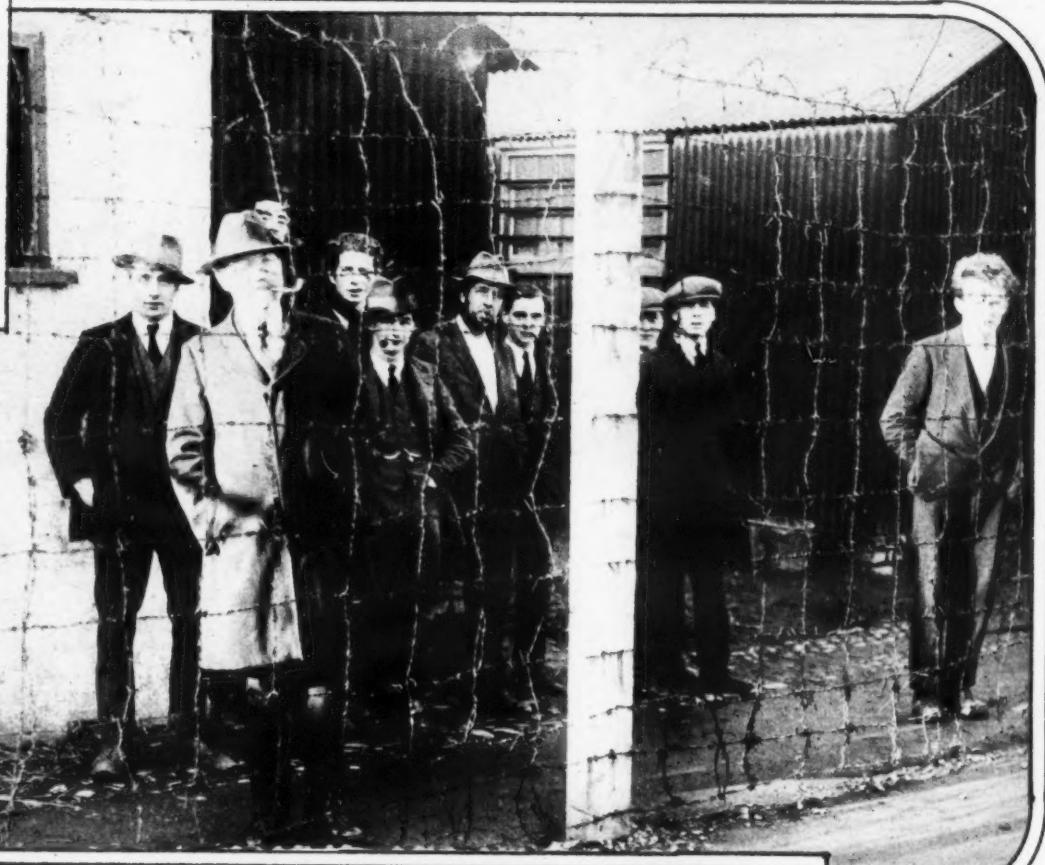

New type of gun now being used in Ireland. It is a Winchester buckshot gun, with a widely scattering range of shot. The chances of escape for any one in the line of fire are very remote.
(© International.)

Bayonets and pickaxes used in breaking into the headquarters of a suspected Sinn Fein organization. Both sides are resorting to more violent measures, and the peace efforts, from which much was hoped, have receded into the background.

(© International.)

Sinn Fein prisoners at Beggars Bush Barracks watching through the barbed wire barriers an inspection of Auxiliary Police that is going on outside. The man with pipe is W. Sears, M. P. for Mayo.
(© International.)

Tank used as a battering ram in a military attack on a Sinn Fein rendezvous in Cork. Nothing can withstand the power of the monster tank, before which the doors crumble as though made of paper.
(© International.)

Prominent Personages Now Claiming Public Attention

EMINENT BRITISH STATESMEN
Premier Lloyd George and Lord Reading, newly appointed Viceroy of India, photographed during a stroll at Chequers, the stately residence recently presented by Lord Fareham for use of the Prime Minister.

VILHJALMUR STEFANSSON AND CARL J. LOMEN

The world-famous explorer, Stefansson (at right), recently met Mr. Lomen in Washington to promote the use of reindeer as food. The meat is said to have the juiciness of good beefsteak. Mr. Lomen is the head of the reindeer industry in Alaska.

(© Harris & Ewing.)

SIR EDWARD CARSON
Ulster leader, who has resigned his position as head of the Ulsterite organization.

W. FRANK PERSONS
Vice Chairman in charge of Domestic Operations of the Red Cross. During the war he was Director General of Civilian Relief and later Director in Geneva Red Cross.

(© Harris & Ewing.)

THOMAS W.
LAMONT
New York banker and member of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., who has recently been called to Mexico in connection with a reorganization of the financial affairs of that country.

PRINCE ANTHONY
BIBESCO
New Minister Plenipotentiary from Rumania at Washington. He is the grandson of the Prince of Rumania and has a record of diplomatic service in Vienna, Brussels, Rome and London. He recently married the daughter of Mr. Asquith.

(© Harris & Ewing.)

CLARENCE J. MCLEOD
Youngest Representative in Congress, being only 25 years old. He is from a Michigan district, and has been selected as assistant Republican whip of the House. It is the first time that so young a man has been chosen for that position.

(© Harris & Ewing.)

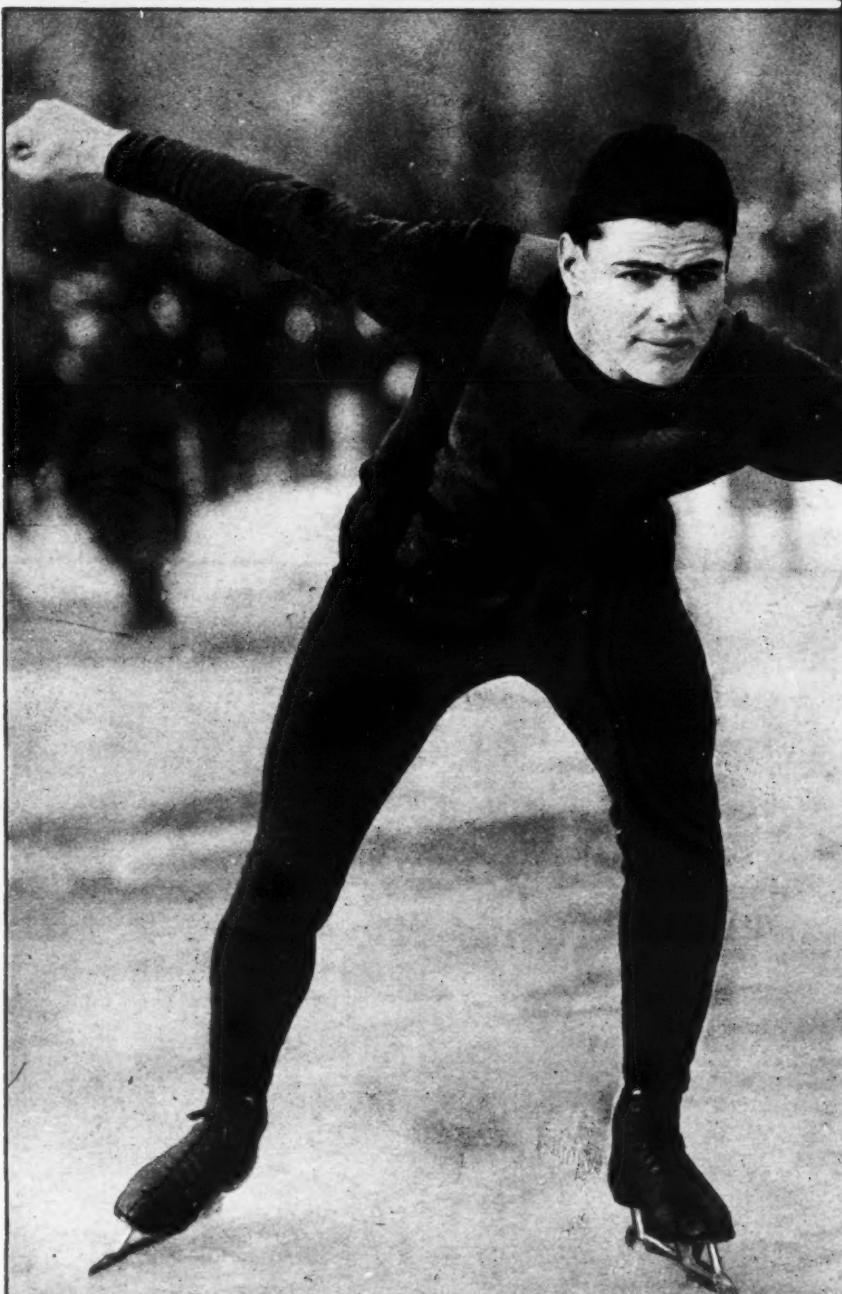

REAR ADMIRAL H. McL. P.
HUSE
Just placed in command of the Third Naval District by the Navy Department, relieving Rear Admiral Glennon.

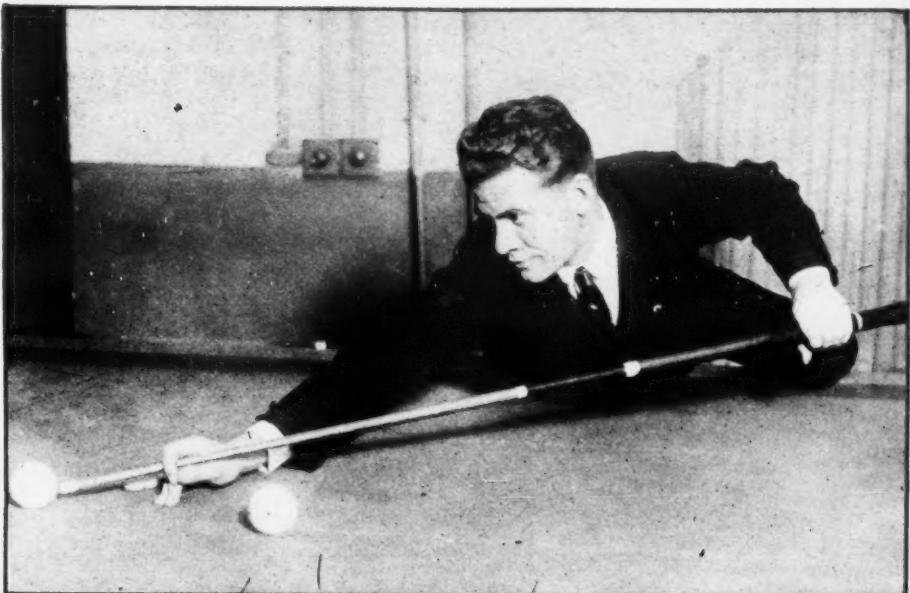

(© U. S. Navy Official Photo.)

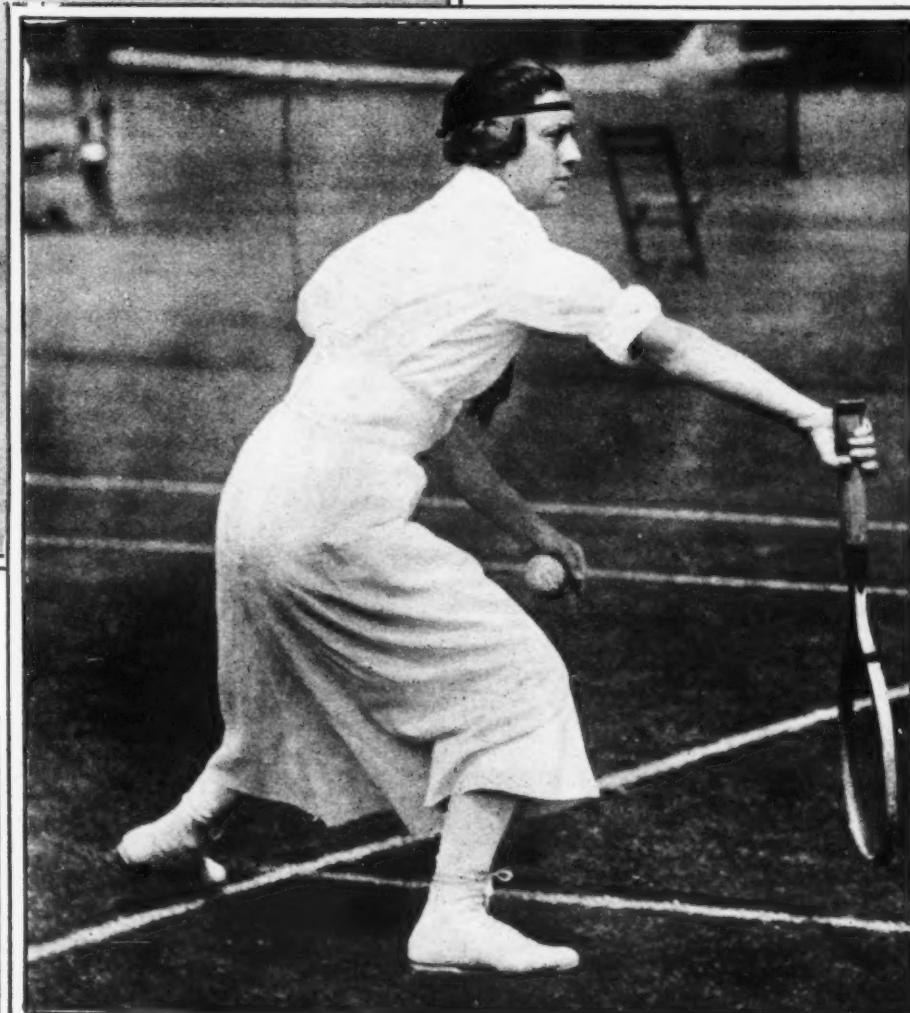

Leading Figures and Events In the World of Sport

CHARLES JEWTRAW
Winner of the National Speed Skating Championship at Saranac Lake, N. Y., Feb. 3. His total points were 120, while Roy McWhirter, who finished second, had 90 points.

EDOUARD HOREMANS
of Belgium, billiard champion of Europe, who is regarded in the billiard world as the only one who has a chance with Willie Hoppe. Efforts are now being made to arrange matches between the two at 18.1 and 18.2 balk line.
(© International.)

MISS MARION ZINDERSTEIN
of Boston, winner of the Invitation Tennis Tournament at the Heights Casino, Brooklyn, N. Y., Feb. 5.

BRITTON-LEWIS CHAMPIONSHIP FIGHT
Jack Britton (right) shaking hands with Ted Lewis before the fifteen-round fight for the welterweight championship at Madison Square Garden Feb. 7. Britton won decisively. Joe Humphries is seen holding diamond-studded belt which went to winner. (© International.)

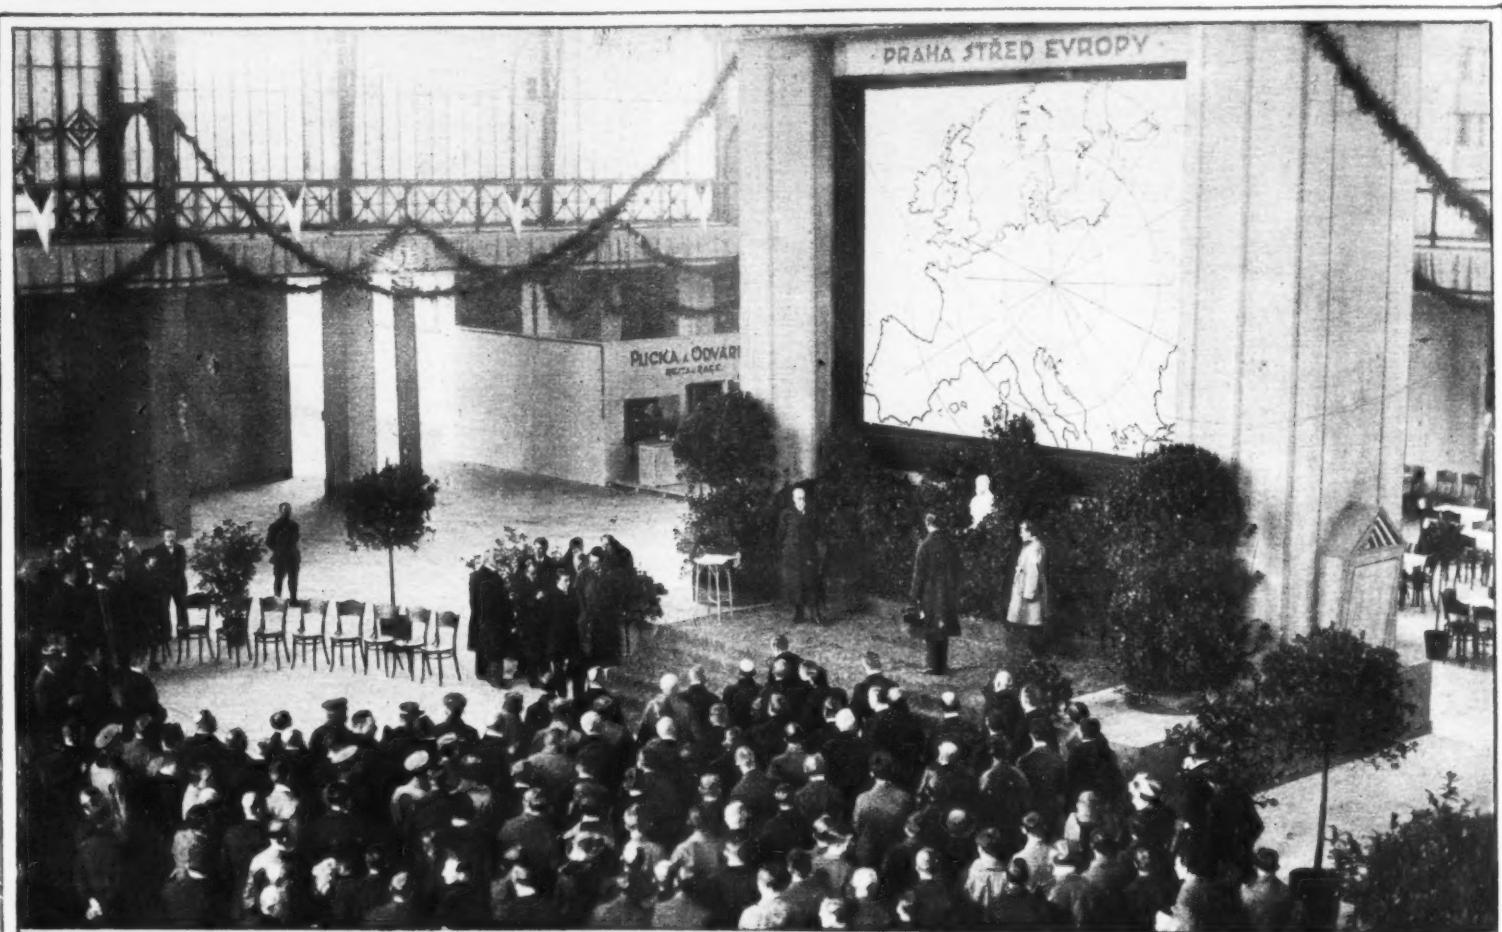

NEW PARK FOR YANKEES
Projected stadium to be built by New York American League Baseball Club. It will extend from 157th to 161st Street and from Doughty Avenue to River Avenue, the Bronx. Will hold 75,000 spectators.

Disarmament and Reparations Conference at Paris

First photograph of President Obregon and his new Cabinet taken in the National Palace in Mexico City. Affairs in Mexico under the new administration are steadily progressing toward stability. Holland and Germany were additional States recognizing Mexico in December, but France, Great Britain and the United States held aloof. Presumably the question will be left to the Harding Administration to settle, as well as the pressing oil problem.
(© Underwood & Underwood.)

Conference of British and French Premiers and War Ministers at the Quai d'Orsay, Paris, photographed by electric light. Left to right, seated, are Earl Curzon, British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, British Premier Lloyd George, Premier Aristide Briand of France and the French War Minister M. Barthou. The conference gave Germany an extension of time for disarmament and fixed the amount of German reparations at approximately $56,000,000,000, besides a tax of 12 per cent. on exports.
(© International.)

and Political Developments in Four Continents

THE situation in the Caucasus, from the allied viewpoint, has become critical. The long-expected fall of Armenia before Bolshevik intrigue and aggression has been fulfilled, and the capital, Erivan, has become, like Baku in Azerbaijan, a focus of Bolshevik power in the Caucasus. With the Soviet firmly in the saddle in Armenia, and in close contact and understanding with the insurgent Turkish forces of Kemal Pasha on the west, the danger became apparent that the last of the three Caucasus republics to retain its independence—Georgia—would go the way of the others. Georgia's attempts to neutralize this danger have now led to a crisis with the Soviet Government, and no one yet knows what will be the end. Meanwhile Azerbaijan, which largely contributed the armed forces that overwhelmed Armenia, has pursued the usual tenor of the Bolshevik way. According to recent advices, it has carried on for months a systematic reign of terror, inflicting death on thousands who opposed in any way the continuance of the Bolshevik rule in the Tartar republic.

Ground between the Soviet and the Turkish Nationalist millstones on east and west, and invaded from Azerbaijan by a force including many Armenian Bolsheviks, the former Armenian Government had been forced to yield to the inevitable. The President, M. Abarounian, was absent in Geneva, where he was pleading the cause of his distracted country; the Prime Minister, H. Chanjanian, and his Ministry ceased to function as a national Government.

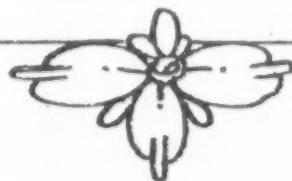

Leaders of Armenian volunteer cavalry in the plain in the vicinity of Kars. The officers are well equipped and mounted on swift and hardy horses.

Station at Erivan, the capital of the Armenian Republic, on the occasion of the visit of the British High Commissioner. In the foreground are Rufen Pasha, the Armenian Minister of War, and General Khverdoff. A guard of honor was in attendance.

British Chief Commissioner in conference with the Armenian leaders at Kars. They are shown concerting measures which it was hoped would thwart the efforts of the Bolshevik regime in Russia to overthrow the young republic.

Fuad Pasha, the Sultan of Egypt, passing in his carriage through the streets of Mansura and being saluted by officers of the municipality. The independence of Egypt, which was practically promised by the British Government, has not yet become an accomplished fact. It has been alleged that the delay was due to the fact that the grant of independence at the present time would stimulate the demand of Ireland for a similar concession. Then, too, the precarious condition of affairs in the Near East may be another reason for moving slowly.

(© Mirzaoff.)

LOOKING FOR THE 100 PER CENT. PERFECT BABY

Proud mothers bringing their children to the San Diego (Cal.) Baby Contest, where $10,000 in prizes were awarded. (© Keystone View Co.)

MME. CURIE

Most famous French woman scientist, who, jointly with her late husband, was the discoverer of radium, the most precious and most powerful of elements. It is announced that she will shortly visit the United States.

MRS. HARDING'S GOWN

One of the attractive gowns purchased by Mrs. Harding in New York was the tea gown of mauve chiffon here presented. The upper section of the gown is composed of gold lace, with green tassels in front and a silver and mauve sash around the waist. The train is also of mauve chiffon and is of moderate length. (© International.)

SARAH BERNHARDT

Incomparable French tragedienne, now 76 years old, delivering an address at a French charity performance. (© Keystone View Co.)

QUEEN OF MARDI GRAS BALL
Miss Kathleen Beale Crawford chosen as Queen of the Mardi Gras ball held at Ritz-Carlton Hotel, New York, Feb. 8. (© Wide World Photos.)

D
in na lines a which tailore
model
Show
Assoc

Activities in ms Illustrated Described

DASHING TAILORED SUIT
in navy twill cord. The clean-cut lines are emphasized by the braiding, which is a feature of the newest tailored outfits this season. The model was shown at the Fashion
Show of the National Retail Garment
Association at the Hotel Commodore,
New York, Feb. 3.
(© Underwood & Underwood.)

AN AMERICAN PRINCESS
Princess Andrea, formerly Miss Margaret Draper of Boston, whose husband is of a famous Italian family.

(© Underwood & Underwood.)

STRANGE CASE OF MRS. SOUTH

Mrs. South of Atlanta, Ga., and the eleven children whom she adopted, claiming that they had been born to her. Her husband is said to have believed her. She is shown in one picture with alleged "triplets," who were really children of three different mothers. Above are the other six adopted children. Detection of the fraud was caused by the absence of a birth certificate. The "triplets" have been sent back, but the husband, who is reported as reconciled, has agreed to let his wife retain the other six.
(Photos © Central News and Underwood & Underwood.)

PALM BEACH DIVERSIONS
Mrs. Archibald McNeill with her scootmotor at the Florida resort.
The device is of English origin, but is rapidly coming into American favor.

(© Wide World Photos.)

SURF BATH-
ING IN FEBRUARY
at Palm Beach, Fla.,
where the water is warm and the air genial. Left to right are Mrs. D. W.
Whitemore, Mrs. J. Arthur
Hull and Miss Phyllis
Hull of Mount Vernon, N. Y.
(© Wide World Photos.)

SMART DINNER
GOWN
worn by Alice
Brady, Realart star,
at the International
Silk Exposition,
New York. It is of Mallinson's black
pussy willow meteor, with a panel of jet down the front and back. The waistline is an unusual one - being formed of a single band of large jet beads.
(Realart Pictures.)

Who's Who in the Dramatic World. No. IV.: Playwrights

RIDA JOHNSON YOUNG
Author of "Little Old New York."
(Photo by Marceau.)

MARGARET
MAYO
"Baby Mine."
(Photo by Bangs.)

ELEANOR W.
PORTER
"Mary Marie."

JANE COWL

"Smilin' Through."
(Photo by White.)

CHARLES
W.
GODDARD
Co-author of "The Broken
Wing."

MARGARET
MAYO
"Baby Mine."
(Photo by Bangs.)

JAMES
MONT-GOMERY
"Irene,"
"Easy Money," "Going Up."

AARON HOFFMAN
"Welcome Stranger."

GILDA VARESI
"Enter Madame."
(Photo by Ira D. Schwarz.)

EDWARD PEPLE
"The Prince Chap."
(Photo by White.)

FREDERIC ISHAM
"Three Live Ghosts."

GEORGE
ADE
"The County
Chairman,"
"The Shoo-Gun."
(© Paul Thompson.)

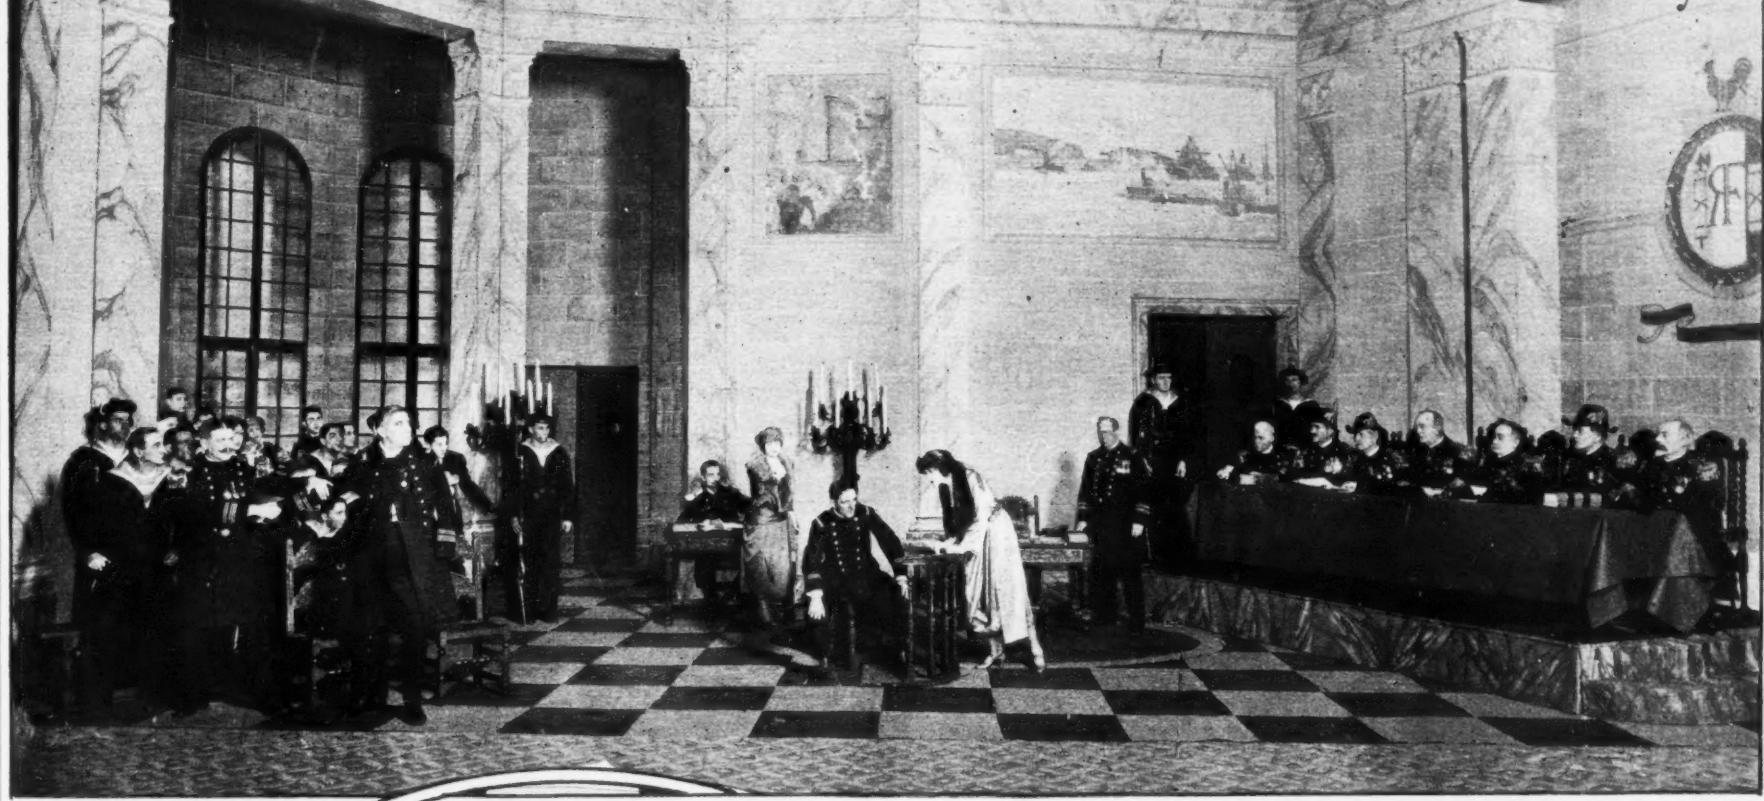

EDWARD
SHELDON
"Salvation
Nell," "The Jest."

EUGENE O'NEILL
"Beyond the Horizon."
(© Paul Thompson.)

JAMES FORBES
"The Famous Mrs.
Fair."

Climactic Scene and Actresses in Current Plays

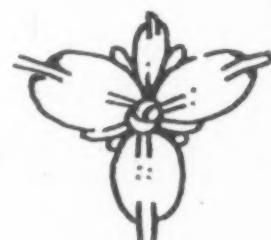

COURT-MARTIAL IN "IN THE NIGHT WATCH." Thrilling trial scene when Captain Corlaix (Robert Warwick), commander of the French cruiser Alma, is being court-martialed for disregarding signal lights that resulted in the loss of his vessel. His wife (Jeanne Eagels) creates a sensation by declaring that on the night the disaster occurred she, in violation of naval regulations, was aboard the cruiser. To her husband this revelation comes as a thunderbolt. In whose cabin had she been? Not in his.

(Photo by White Studio.)

DOROTHY REYNOLDS playing leading feminine roles in Metro photo plays.
(Photo by Apeda.)

FRANCES CARSON in the part of Lucia Pell in the play of the Mexican border, "The Bad Man."
(Photo by Ira D. Schwarz.)

MAY McAVOY playing principal part in the film dramatization of Barrie's "Sentimental Tommy."
(Photo by Warren.)

Opera Singers Prominent During the Present Season

CORA CHASE
Comparative newcomer on the operatic stage who recently sprang into popular favor by her singing in "Rigoletto" at the Metropolitan.
(Photo by Mishkin.)

FLORENCE EASTON
as Elsa in "Lohengrin." Her great opportunity came a few weeks ago when she took Farrar's place at brief notice.
(Photo by Mishkin.)

AMELITA GALLI-CURCI
as Juliet in "Romeo and Juliet." She has been engaged to sing at the Metropolitan Opera House next season.
(Photo by Moffett.)

ROSA RAISA
as she appears in "Lohengrin."
She is of Polish birth. She is singing this season with the Chicago Opera Company at Manhattan Opera House, New York.

Union of the Philharmonic and National Symphony Orchestras

ANTON SEIDL
Conductor who for many years directed the Philharmonic Orchestra.

THEODORE THOMAS
Famous leader long identified with the New York Philharmonic Society.

JOSEF STRANSKY
Philharmonic conductor who will continue as leader of the amalgamated orchestras.

ARTHUR BODANSKY
Conductor of the National Symphony before its union with the Philharmonic.
(© Keystone View Co.)

An event of note to music lovers is the announcement of the amalgamation of the Philharmonic and National Symphony Orchestras. The former has been in existence since 1842. The union of the societies has been caused by financial reasons. The mounting expense due to increased salaries made necessary by living conditions and the competition for the services of the best players made this season no exception to the general rule that the guarantors of the several societies face a deficit at the end of the season. Men of prominence who had contributed to the support of the National Symphony Orchestra for three years realized that the cause of music would be best served by a consolidation of interests with the older and more firmly established Philharmonic Society. The past two weeks have seen this alliance consummated, with the result that the Philharmonic Orchestra is assured of a future untroubled by the fear of an annual deficit to threaten its existence, and the public has the promise of a Philharmonic season next year which will give concertgoers an opportunity to hear the orchestra under the direction of Willem Mengelberg as guest conductor, in addition to those under Josef Stransky, who will enter upon his eleventh season as the orchestra's head.

New Italian Discoveries at Cyrene, Africa

FOLLOWING the acquisition of Tripoli and Cyrenaica by Italy after the successful war with Turkey in 1912, extensive projects were inaugurated by the Italian Government for archaeological explorations. It was believed that Cyrene would prove a most fruitful field, as it was at one time a great centre of Greek life. Carneades, Aristippus and other famous names had adorned its annals, and the city had been a favorite of the Roman Emperor Hadrian, who had adorned it with magnificent temples and works of art. The city stood on the northern coast of Africa between Carthage and Alexandria and had one of the finest sites on the continent. It was a meeting place of Greek, Roman and Egyptian culture, and many traces of all three civilizations have been unearthed by the investigators. The richest fields were in the thermae or public baths of the city. Enough treasures were unearthed there to constitute in themselves a considerable museum of art. Some of them are illustrated on this page. Others included a superb statue of Aphrodite, of which, however, the head was lacking. It is supposed to date back to the fourth century B. C. A special fund of 1,000,000 francs has recently been voted by the Italian Government for further investigations.

CYRENEAN THERMAE
The public baths at Cyrene, begun in Ptolemaic times and rebuilt under Hadrian. It is from these ruins that the Italian investigators have gathered a rich harvest of statues and other works of art.

HYBRID ORIENTAL GODDESS

Strange figure that is perhaps an Isis-Atargatis, a goddess of Egyptian origin, excavated at Cyrene.

RESTORED GALLERY IN THE THERMAE AT CYRENE
Part of the splendid public baths at Cyrene overwhelmed by an earthquake in the fifth century A. D.

ALEXANDER THE GREAT
The head of this marble statue of the great conqueror found at Cyrene is the finest work of its kind extant.

Character Sketches of the Principal Figures in the

THE sketches of Bolshevik leaders here reproduced have an interest all their own because they were drawn from life by a gifted young Russian artist, U. K. Artsybushev. The book in which they were contained was ordered destroyed by the Soviet authorities, but a copy was found on a Red prisoner on the Murman front and reached the allied countries. Some of the faces here shown are familiar to the public because of the prominent part played by the originals in the tragedy that has brought the once great Russia to social and economic ruin. Others are those of men who have played a subordinate if important part in the machinery of the Soviet regime. They are (1) Abanessov, Secretary of the Central Executive Committee; (2) Sokolnikov, Commissary for Finances; (3) Shrieder, President of tribunal governing publications; (4) Trotzy, Minister of War; (5) Martov, Social Democrat; (6) Marie Spiridonova, long identified with revolutionary activities; (7) Adolph Joffe, former Soviet Ambassador to Berlin; (8) Podvoisky, Commissary for War; (9) Steinberg, Commissary for Justice; (10) Volodarsky; (11) Krylenko, Chief of Staff; (12) Shvetsov; (13) Platten, Swiss who accompanied Lenin from Germany to Russia; (14) Nikolai Lenin, dictator of Russia and brains of the Soviet regime; (15) Kamenev, one of the trade delegates to Great Britain, who was compelled to withdraw from further negotiations because he was carrying on propaganda in the United Kingdom; (16) Dybenko, Commissary for Naval Affairs; (17) Zinoviev, who was recently expelled from Germany for carrying on propaganda; (18) Kamkov; (19) Madame Kolontay, one of the most implacable of the Soviet leaders; (20) Shlikhter, Commissary for Commerce; (21) Shliapnikov, Commissary for Labor; (22) Bonch-Bruevitch, one of the former nobles, who has made common cause with the Bolsheviks; (23) Lunacharsky, of the inner executive circle surrounding Lenin; (24) Chernov; (25) Sverdloff, President of Moscow Soviet, and (26) Sukhanov, Social Democrat Internationalist.

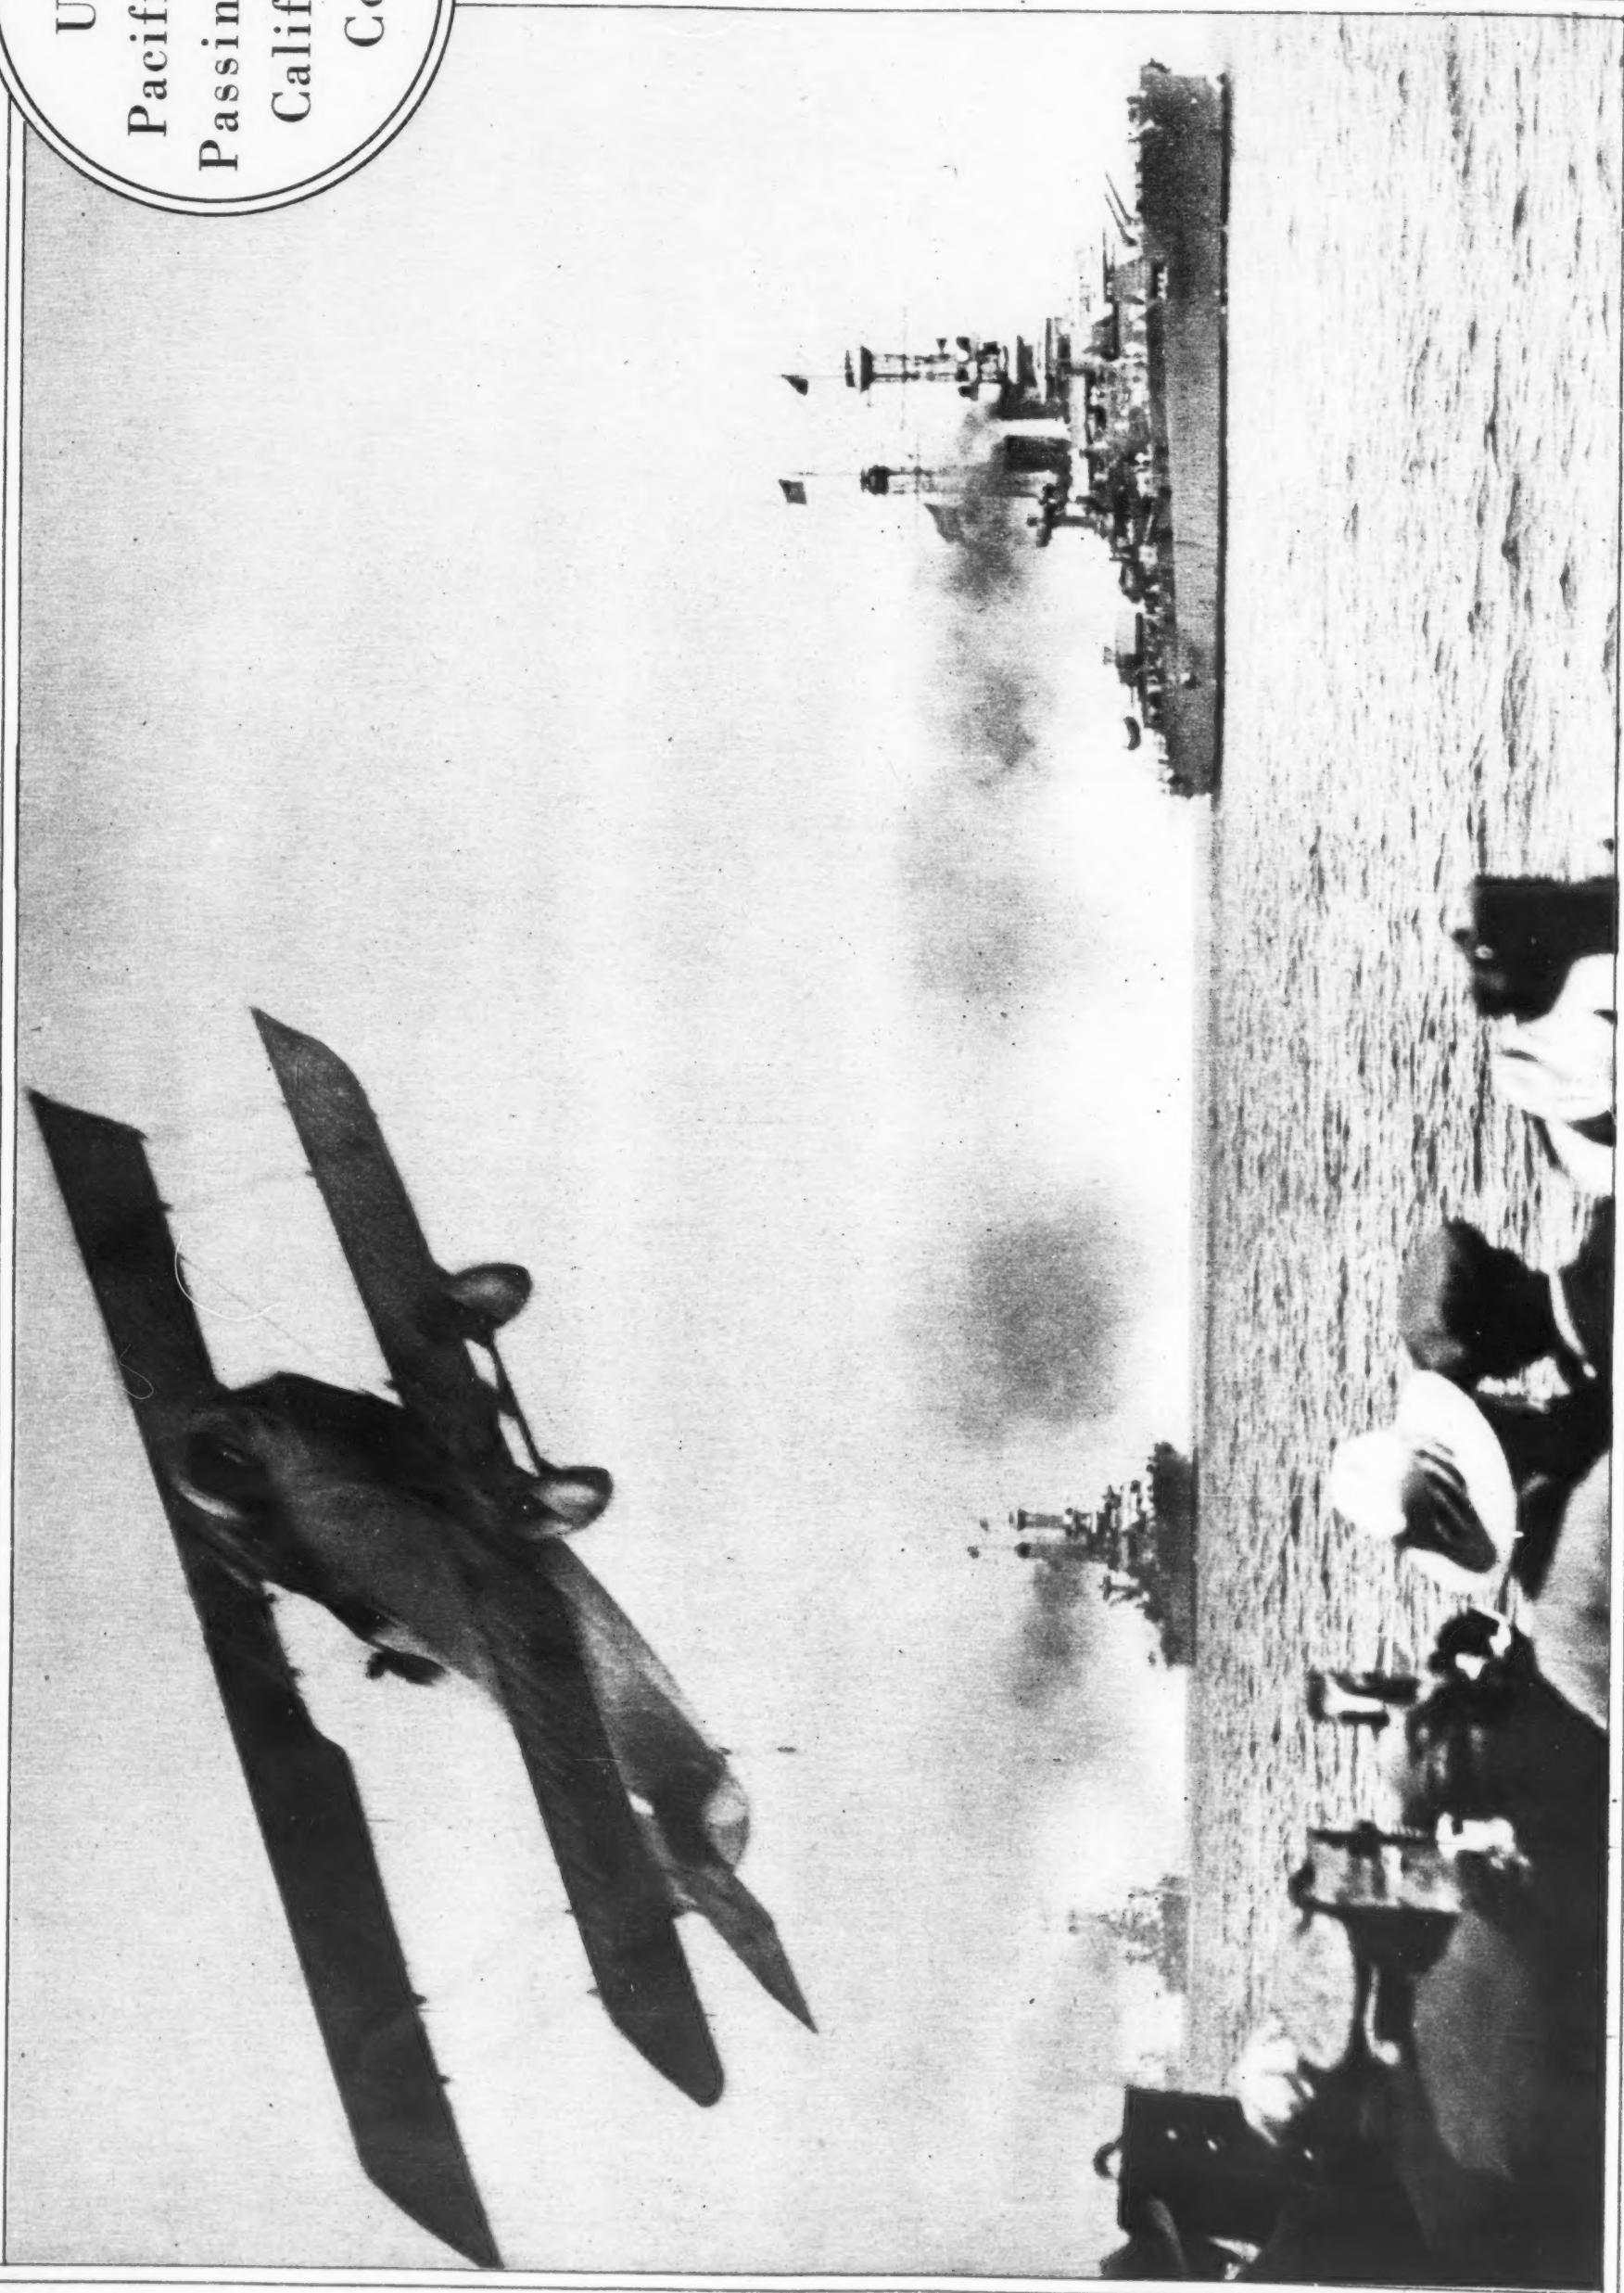

the Bolshevik Regime That Now Dominates Russia

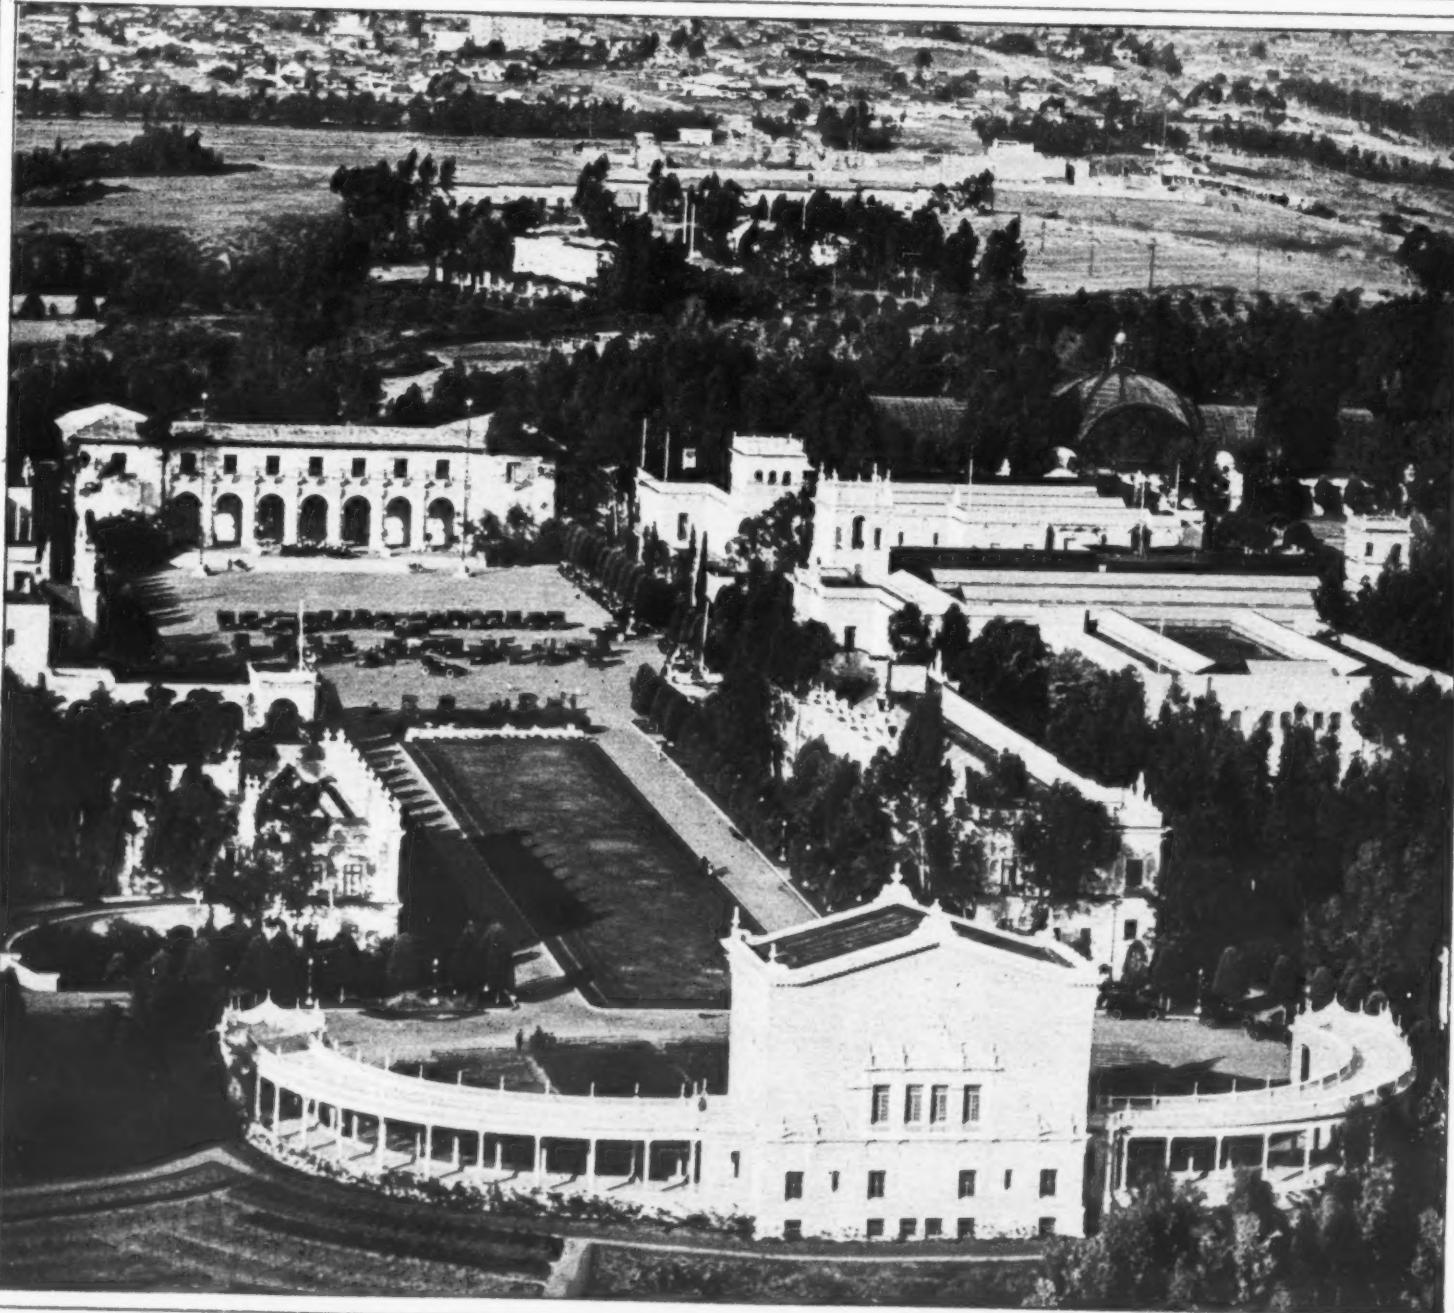

U. S.
Pacific Fleet
Passing Along
Californian
Coast

Dreadnoughts of the Pacific fleet are here shown, together with accompanying air craft, as the vessels passed along the coast of California on the way to Panama. There they were joined by the Atlantic fleet, and the combined fleets passed southward until Jan. 28, when the Atlantic fleet headed for Callao, Peru, while the Pacific fleet pursued its way to Valparaíso, Chile. In both ports the fleets received many courtesies. The program called for their reunion Feb. 7, when a sham engagement was to take place between them.

(© Underwood & Underwood.)

Aerial Photographs of City of San Diego, Cal.

San Diego is one of the most beautiful cities on the Pacific Coast. Its mild and equable climate makes it an incomparable health resort. It is the oldest municipality of California. The two accompanying pictures were taken from a dirigible. The upper one shows the size and architecture of the San Diego Stadium, which can accommodate 50,000 people. At the left is the High School, and in the distance is the residential part of the city. The lower picture shows from the rear the organ pavilion in Balboa Park, in which is the largest outdoor organ in the world, and the Plaza de Panama. The spot is the centre of the former Panama-California Exposition.

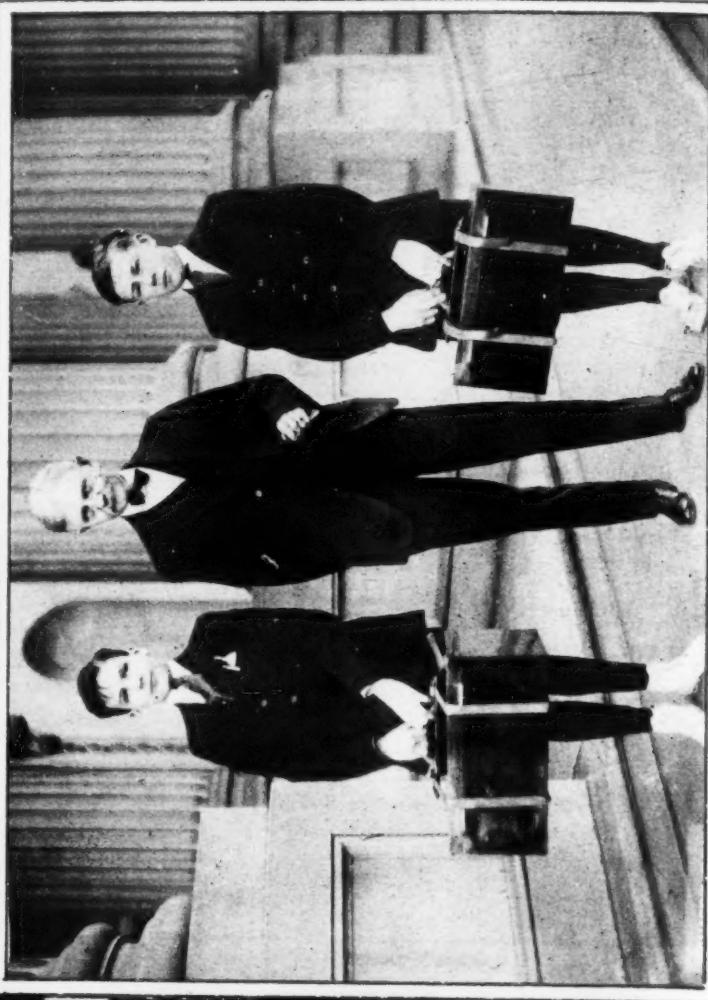

(Photos © W. E. Averett, from Geo. H. White.)

Harding and Coolidge Officially Elected

JOINT session of the House and Senate on Wednesday, Feb. 9, when Warren G. Harding and Calvin Coolidge were officially elected President and Vice President of the United States for four years beginning next March 4. The Vice President presided, as prescribed by law. He is shown standing in front of the flag and next to Speaker Gillett (seated). The two mahogany boxes containing the electoral votes are shown in front of the Vice President.

Below, Vice President Marshall is shown with Ingraham G. Mack, Republican (left), and Addison Giesecking, Democrat, pages of the Senate, who delivered the electoral vote of the United States to the joint session of Congress Feb. 9.

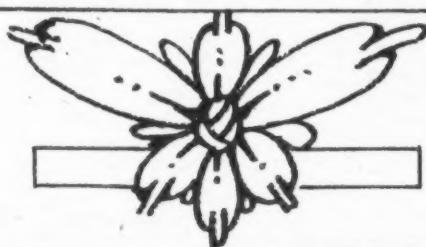

(Photos © Harris & Ewing.)

French National Holiday Celebrated in Tahiti

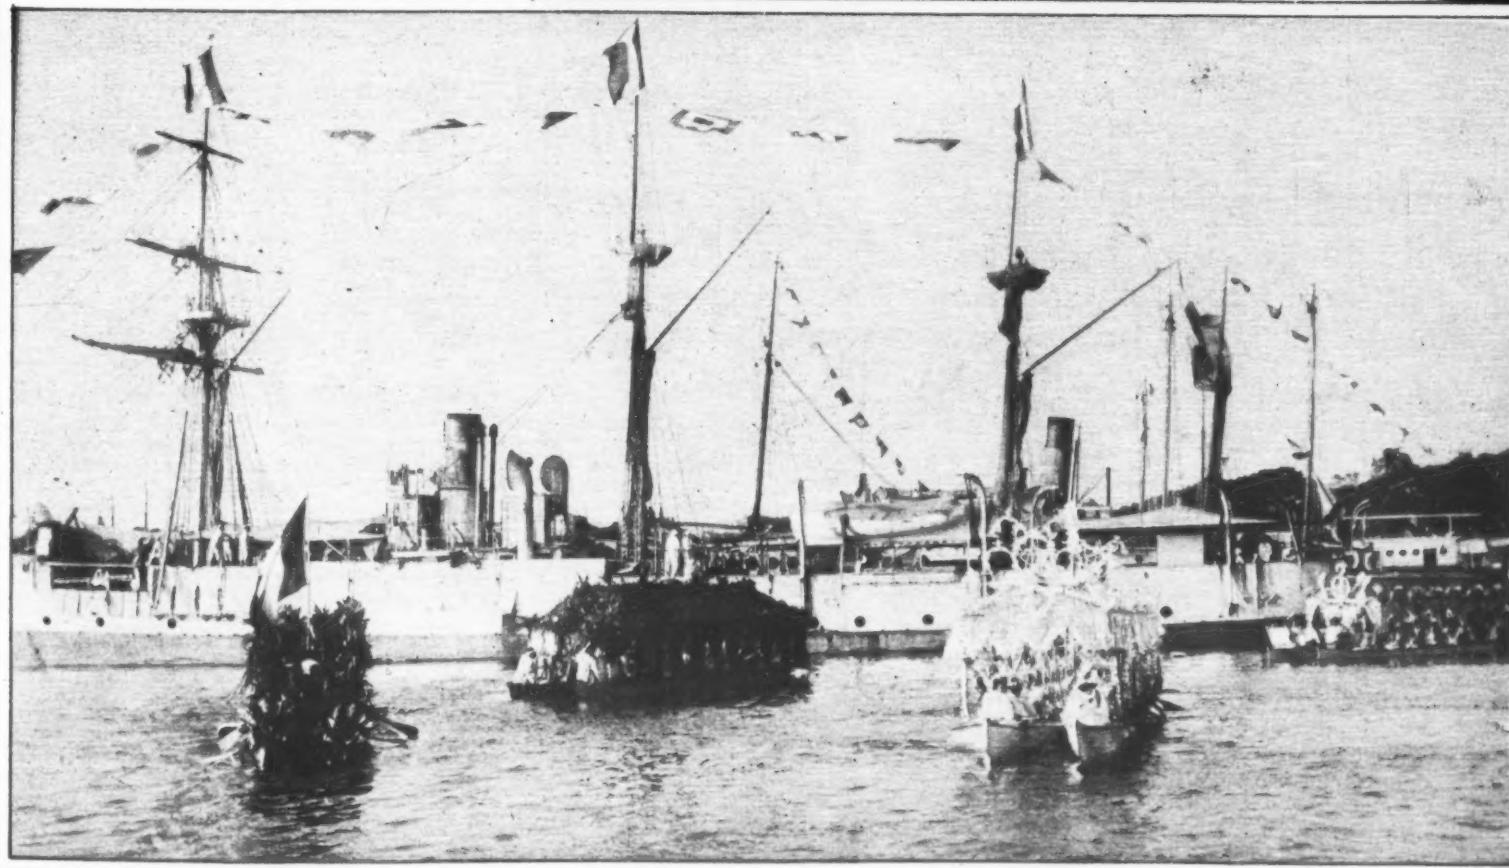

Climbing the greased pole during the fete at Tahiti in celebration of the fall of the Bastile. Tahiti is a French possession, acquired in 1888. The prize offered for the one who could reach and touch the flag at the end of the pole was 1,000 francs. Of the contestants, 143 fell into the lagoon, and the winner was barely able to touch the flag before he also fell.

Group of singers from Papara who won the grand prize in the Tahiti singing contests. The man at the left is dressed in the costume of human hair which is now worn but rarely. The native songs were rendered with a sweetness that deeply impressed the Europeans who were present at the fete.

Raiatea dancing girls who won the second prize at the Tahiti festival. They danced the Otea, which is somewhat similar to the hula-hula dance of the Hawaiian Islands.

Harbor front at Papeete, with French vessel decorated with flags and native canoes in the foreground decked with palm branches and flowers
(Photos © Underwood & Underwood.)

Do you know there is now an eighth Fine Art?

Combining the glories of painting, fit to hang in any art gallery—of drama more thrilling than any ever seen within the four walls of a theatre—of the greatest novels, narratives and brilliant translations—of all life and all humanity.

REV. LINCOLN H. CASWELL

(Pastor, Lincoln Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church, New York)

Rev. Caswell delivered a lecture on "Way Down East" from the pulpit of his church on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 30 and 31, 1920, illustrated with seventy lantern slides from the Griffith production.

REV. ROBERT T. TUMBLESTON

(Pastor, Chelten Avenue Baptist Church, Germantown, Philadelphia)

"You have presented in a typically Griffith way, an old, yet ever-fetching story of high idealism. There is much to sweeten and inspire life in this production. I would not in any manner hesitate to give it my full endorsement."

REV. JOHN T. WILDS

(Pastor, Seventh Presbyterian Church, 134 Broome St., New York)

"A perfect play, perfectly played, and perfectly presented. I am truly grateful to the dear Lord that He has so led you in your work that you are doing great good."

CHARLES HANSON TOWNE

(Editor McClure's Magazine)

"I do not remember ever to have been so thrilled in a theatre. I congratulate the public."

CHARLES DANA GIBSON

(Artist and Art Critic)

"Ever since seeing 'Way Down East' for the second time, I have wanted to write and congratulate you on this magnificent production. You certainly have put moving pictures AMONG THE FINE ARTS."

JOHN BARRYMORE

(America's Distinguished Actor)

"It is the most superlatively exquisite and enchanting thing I have ever seen in my life."

FATHER JOHN C. McGINN

(University of Notre Dame)

"Father Burns has already written you. But I wish to add my appreciation. 'Way Down East' is inspiring in every detail. I wish to thank you in the name of the students of Notre Dame, who came away from your picture with the conviction that they must be better men."

SISTER M. CLAUDIA

(Saint Mary's College, Notre Dame, Indiana)

"'Way Down East' is a most wonderful picture. It carries a forceful lesson which, God grant, the men and women of today may heed."

"Way Down East"

NOW PLAYING—44TH ST. THEATRE—NEW YORK

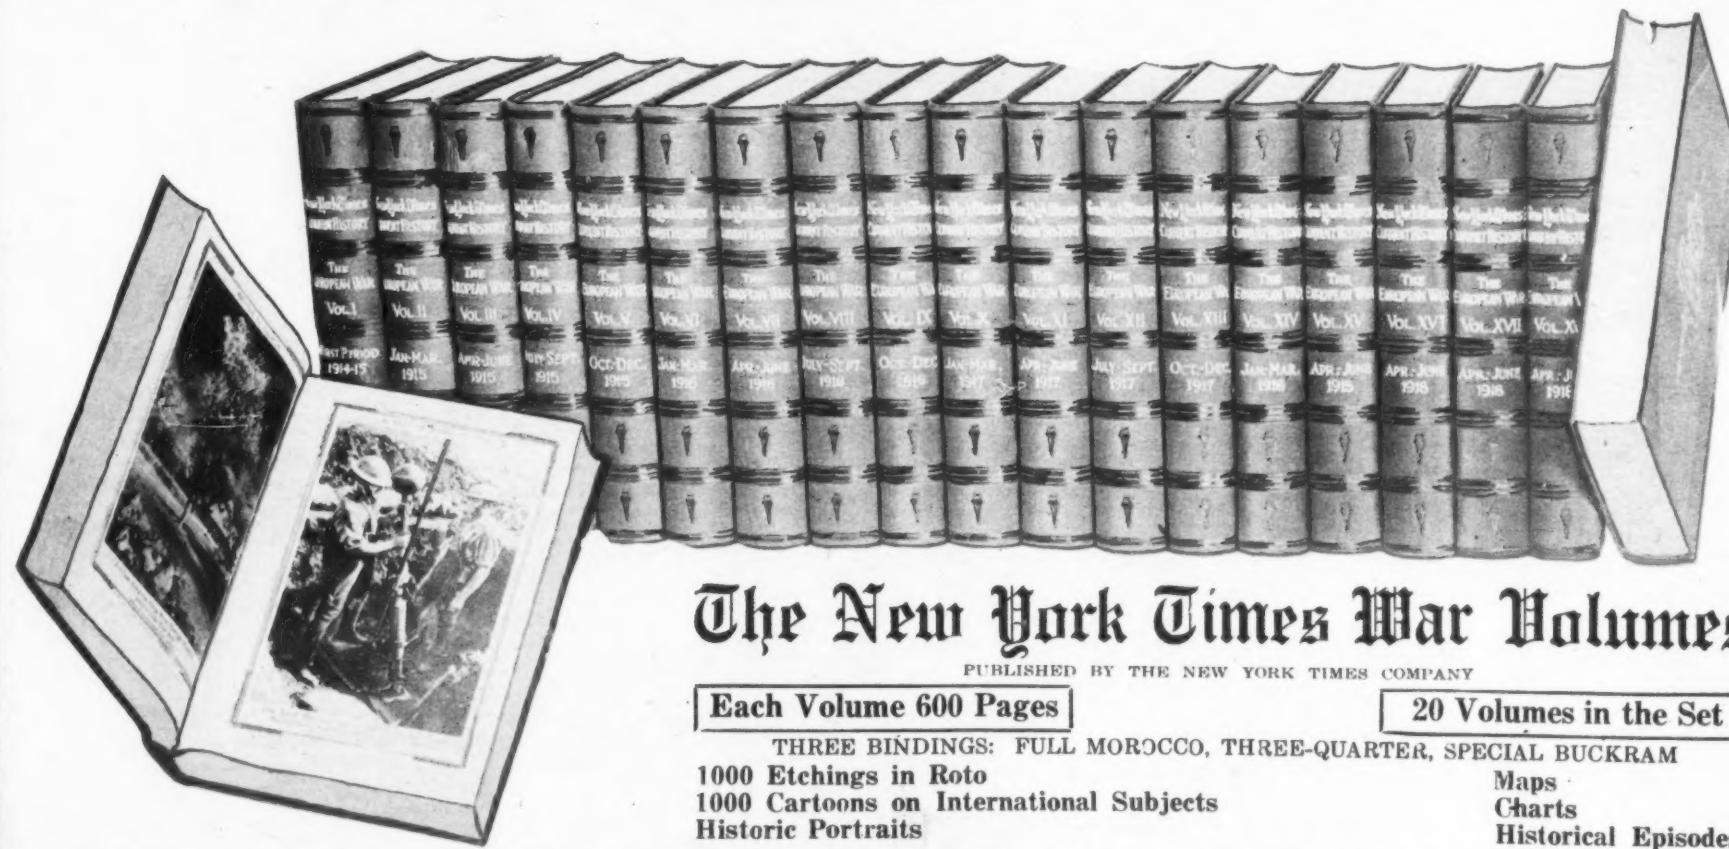

(Already Passed the 350th Performance)

Twice Daily—Including Sundays—2:15 and 8:15.

D. W. Griffith's
Masterpiece

Special Music.

All Seats Reserved.

The New York Times War Volumes

PUBLISHED BY THE NEW YORK TIMES COMPANY

Each Volume 600 Pages

20 Volumes in the Set

THREE BINDINGS: FULL MOROCCO, THREE-QUARTER, SPECIAL BUCKRAM

1000 Etchings in Roto

Maps

1000 Cartoons on International Subjects

Charts

Historic Portraits

Historical Episodes.

THE history of the war as presented in these volumes differs from ordinary histories in the fact that the history is not the individual work of any one writer, or any particular group of writers. The history is narrated by the men who performed the deeds and made the record.

THE most conspicuous feature of the set is the presentation in textual form of all the essential reports, documents and official utterances usually found in the appendices of ordinary histories in type so small as to be almost illegible.

ACH volume is separately indexed; the 20th Volume contains a CUMULATIVE INDEX; also a digest and gazetteer of noteworthy names and places mentioned in the 20 volumes.

Sold on Easy-Payment Plan

Full Particulars and a free booklet will be mailed to any one who applies.

The New York Times Co.

Times Square, New York City:

Send free booklet and particulars of the War Volumes of The New

Name

Address

City

State

The full set will be sold on the easy-payment plan in monthly instalments and will be delivered, handsomely boxed, to any point in the United States.

Endorsed by the highest Military Authorities, the chief Historians, the best-known Librarians, the most distinguished Statesmen and the most eminent Scholars in the United States.

Sign and Forward at Once the Attached Coupon
No Obligation to Buy Is Involved